

Housing Student Stories

The Institute for Social Research is collecting stories from students about what work they are doing, their experiences and how professional development has assisted their work.

Agencies sponsoring students into the courses, the Australasian Housing Institute and Swinburne are interested to hear what students have to say about the courses and the perceived benefits arising from them. We intend to use this information for public and promotional purposes.

To help us do this, please complete the following brief survey for past and present students.

Return by email to either:
